Women in the Film Industry

Take a class

- This can help you to learn more about the fundamentals of screenwriting.

Read Scripts

- Why not create a list of your favourite films or TV shows and read the scripts. This can act as a guide when writing your own screenplay.

Watch, watch watch!

- Find films or TV shows that are similar to the genre you want to write. This can help you to develop ideas for your own screenplay.

Show, don't tell!

- Show the action, don't tell it! As a writer, you will need to consider and describe the visual elements indicated in your script.

Create a writing routine

- Having a routine will help you to dedicate time to work on your script, and help you to set goals that you can achieve.

Find other screen writers

- Look for other people who are interested in writing. This will allow you to find a community of like-minded people who you can network with.

Draft, draft and draft again!

- Your first script might not be as great as you'd hoped. Don't be afraid to keep drafting your work until you are happy with it!
